Our tour starts and ends on a Saturday (see dates below). The first night is spent in a hotel in the small town of Caroline. On Sunday you will be picked up and driven out to our Base Camp. There will be lunch and the change for a two hours afternoon ride to get to know the horses and the western gear.

On Monday we will load up our covered wagon and follow it with saddle horses to our Adventure Camp deep into the Rocky Mountains (6 hour ride). The following three days we will ride out every day from our Adventure Camp in different directions and explore untouched Canadian wilderness. On Friday we will head back to our Base Camp where the last night will be spend. On Saturday morning after breakfast you will be picked up from Base Camp and driven back to Calgary Airport. The riding opportunities are spectacular and we will spend long hours in the saddle. Our main gate is walk but the trails are challenging and our tours are not for riding beginners! If the weather doesn't allow us to reach the Adventure Camp (flood, snowy conditions…), we will spend the week in Base Camp where we also have amazing trails and breathtaking views!
